One Dead in Miami, Fla. Hotel Fire

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Fire broke out in a downtown Miami hotel this morning, killing one woman and severely burning an elderly man.

Police said the top floor of the three-story Haven Hotel burst into flames about 1:50 a.m., trapping more than a dozen sleeping guests in their rooms.

Officers said when they arrived some were hanging from window sills and others screaming for help. Firemen picked the people off the walls with ladders, said a police sergeant. "It's unbelievable that there were only two casualties," he said.

Police withheld identification of the dead woman pending notification of relatives.

In fair condition at a Miami hospital is Charles Foster, 68, a resident of the hotel. Hospital officials said he suffered burns over 30 per cent of his body, including his face and hands.

Police said the screams of the top floor guests routed about 25 other sleeping people on lower levels.

Residents and guests of an adjoining hotel were also evacuated.

can find." "We must let the city and the nation know that we won't accept second-class citizenship when we pay first-class money," he said, and urged the open housing advocates join with the local NAACP in a boycott of downtown stores announced for today.

King said city police like to empty local jails during Kentucky Derby week here, May 1-6, to make room for "obnoxious outsiders." He hinted it would aggravate police if the jails were filled up with civil rights demonstrators.

Of the 125 marchers, about 25 were demonstration "technicians" from Georgia, South Carolina and Chicago.

States Fight Appears to Be Weakening

By WILLIAM T. PEACOCK WASHINGTON (AP) — Some steam appears to be leaking from drives in state legislatures for a constitutional convention on the Supreme Court's one-man-one vote reapportionment decision.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen, telling a news conference a month ago that 32 states had petitioned Congress for a convention, predicted there would be petitions soon from two more.

The Constitution says Congress shall call a convention on application from two-thirds of the states — 34 of the 50.

But since Dirksen's prediction, the only state whose legislature has taken any significant action is Alaska. Its Senate rejected April 8 a petition-resolution that had passed the House.

A resolution which passed the Iowa House earlier in the year remains locked up in a State Senate committee, its chances of getting out regarded as dim. Democrats control the Iowa Senate and Democratic Gov. Harold E. Hughes is opposed to the resolution.

The convention question is not basically a partisan matter. But Dirksen has more influence with his party's members everywhere than he does with Democrats. Dirksen long has tried to undo the 1964 Supreme Court ruling that both houses of state legislatures must be apportioned on the basis of population.

He failed in 1965 and again in 1966 to get Senate approval for a proposed constitutional amendment to permit apportionment of one house of a state legislature along lines other than population.

Delaware, where a resolution recently was introduced, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin are the likeliest prospects now in Dirksen's search for two more convention petitions.

There are resolutions in Senate and House committees in Pennsylvania. Republican Gov. Raymond P. Shafer has given nominal support to the resolutions but there are doubts in Harrisburg that he will push hard. Democrats have a strong minority in the legislature and Shafer needs Democratic votes for key legislation in his state program.

In Wisconsin, there have been some committee hearings. Aides to Sen. William Proxmire, Wisconsin Democrat, say the State Senate might pass a resolution but call House approval doubtful.

Pulaski Dist. Is Largest

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Pulaski County (rural) School District is now the largest school district in the state. Enrollment for the rural district during March went up to 25,675. The Little Rock District, which has been the state's largest for years, listed 25,647 through March 3.

REV. J. B. WINTERMUTE

"When God Gets Up and Goes" will be the subject of a talk at the Presbyterian church Wednesday night by the Rev. John B. Wintermute, pastor of the First United Presbyterian Church of Selmer, Tenn., according to Haskell Jones, chairman for evangelism for the Hope Church.

The talk will deal with the unrest in America's churches and with what Presbyterians are attempting to do about some of the vital issues of the day.

The Rev. Mr. Wintermute was born in Memphis, received his BA degree at Maryville College in Tennessee and is a graduate of McCormick Presbyterian seminary in Chicago. He has held pastorates in Chicago, Las Animas, Colorado, and has recently resigned a 10-year pastorate in Kansas City to accept a call to the church in Tennessee.

The talk will follow a covered dish dinner beginning at 6:30. While here the Rev. Mr. Wintermute will be a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wimmell in McCaskill. The Wimmells were members of his Colorado church.

Censure of Dodd to Be Recommended

By WALTER R. MEARS WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Ethics Committee has tentatively decided that censure or condemnation — and possibly both — is the punishment it will recommend for Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, sources close to the panel report.

Meeting privately in a hideaway office at the Capitol, the bipartisan committee which investigated misconduct charges against the Connecticut Democrat has abandoned all other possible forms of rebuke, these sources said.

Earlier this month it was learned the committee would recommend neither expulsion nor exoneration of Dodd. The full Senate makes the final decision.

The six-member Select Committee on Standards and Conduct resumes its secret deliberations today, which one source said are reaching the climactic stage.

The committee reportedly is still debating which term — censure or condemn — is the stronger and whether the stronger should be used.

Knowledgeable sources willing to discuss the committee deliberations — and they were few — refused to indicate which aspects of Dodd's conduct would be specified as the basis for proposed Senate punishment.

In two sets of open hearings, the committee has heard testimony on Dodd's financial affairs and his relationship with Chicago public relations man Julius Klein, once a registered agent for West German business interests.

Dodd has denied wrongdoing. In his most recent statement April 14, Dodd said, "I have received many evidences that the people of Connecticut, in their overwhelming majority, believe that I have represented them effectively and honestly."

Surveyor 3 Going Good for Moon

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Surveyor 3, fired back on the track in a crucial space maneuver, zeroed in on the sun and stars today in America's first try at digging the moon.

The spacecraft, equipped with spindly, arm-like shovels, is aimed at the moon's Sea of Storms, the probable lunar landing site for future U.S. astronauts.

Touchdown for the 2,283-pound moon device, the most complicated yet developed by the United States, is about 7 p.m. EST Wednesday.

No problems developed during the first half of the 237,000-mile journey, said scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory at California Institute of Technology.

A midcourse trajectory correction was completed at midnight Monday by a series of rocket bursts and the spacecraft locked back onto the sun and star Canopus for guidance moments later.

"The vehicle quickly regained the sun," a spokesman for the control agency said, "and this was very crucial."

He said 12 more hours of tracking were needed before the maneuver could be termed a complete success "but all indications are it was."

The trajectory correction was performed by the Goldstone Tracking Station on California's Mojave Desert.

After the spacecraft plunks down on the moon Wednesday evening, a signal from earth will actuate Surveyor 3's spidery diggers and send them clawing at the moon's surface.

The hand-sized scoops, able to bite as well as dig, should show scientists whether the surface could support a manned spacecraft. Its mechanical jaws are strong enough to crack concrete.

Before it can land to explore the nature of the moon's surface, however, the spacecraft must be slowed from 6,000 miles per hour, turn around and lower Six million Americans are expected to "invade" Canada this year to visit the Expo 67, Montreal's spectacular world's fair. Set in an exciting locale, two islands and a peninsula in the St. Lawrence River, Expo 67 will boast pavilions built by seventy nations. The fair is just about to open, the 28th day of this month. Everybody will want to see Buckminster Fuller's dome. It is supposed to be the greatest attraction on the grounds and will represent the U.S. contribution.

Everybody will want something to wear that will not wrinkle, be washable and keep them looking like they had just stepped out of a band-box (whatever that is). Anyway, we have it.

We suggest you purchase one of Edwill's summer suits. We know you have seen them advertised in newspapers, Vogue, Harper's and believe us, they are just as pretty as the pictures. The navy linen with the small checked overblouse looks very uptown; the striped seersucker with the solid color blouse has that elegantly casual look; the Chanel rayon linen with a blouse with a bow, appeals to the feminine type and the tattersall checked is a career girl's suit if ever we saw one!

Try them on today; make your choice while we have a selection to choose from.

Pick up some of those Italian gloves with the holes on the backs to go with your summer suit... SMART!

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT!

This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help Us!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush off.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help Us! this newspaper.

BREATHLESS QUESTION

Dear Helen: Just to be sure, I take "breath mints." My question is, when I take one in front of others, do I pass the roll around, or does this imply I think they need them? —UNEASY BREATH

Dear U. B.: Most people wouldn't be that touchy, but when in doubt, pop a mint in your mouth on the fly. (They last longer this way.) —H.

Dear Helen: I'm a junior in a large high school. I've held many class offices from President down and am quite popular, but date only two or three times a month.

My problem has been wondering if I'm normal. It concerns kissing. I hate those passionate kisses, and I'm always nervous when a boy starts to say goodnight because I know he'll think I'm too "proper."

It's probably gotten around that I'm a "no kiss Charlie." I'm really not cold, but I don't like this kind of kissing. Do other girls feel this way too? —OLD-FASHIONED.

Dear O.F.: Many other girls dislike those kisses, and the best way to avoid them is to say so. —H.

Dear Helen: I guess you might say I'm with the popular crowd, but I don't want to be stuck with just the "in's." I think some of the other kids are worth knowing and are much more friendly. But if you go out of your crowd, you're put down.

There's this boy who isn't in our crowd and I think he's great. The "in" kids will probably call me crazy for liking him, and maybe they won't accept me any more. What's more, he doesn't pay much attention to me because I guess he figures I'm out of reach. How can I attract him without losing my friends? —M.J.

Dear M.: What you call the "popular crowd," I'd call the snob-mob. Choose friends from people you really like, and be friendly with everyone — that's the only road to true popularity.

How do you attract the "great" boy? Show him you aren't out of reach, and I'm sure he'll take it from there. —H.

Dear Helen: I'm just an average guy. I don't worship sex and never will. I like girls in general but don't have a steady. In fact I don't date much yet.

That doesn't mean I don't like to look at pretty girls in short skirts and bikinis. They improve the landscape.

Let's face it, we're all human and we all like nice scenery, especially feminine. Girls like to be looked at, so they dress accordingly. I think they're doing us guys a big favor when they wear the mod styles, and people who knock them are pretty dumb. Right, Helen? —CHARLEY

Dear Charley: Right, Charley. —H.

Dear Helen: We four are wondering how you pronounce your last name. Does it rhyme with throttle? —SUE, DEB, JOE AND FANG

Dear Kids: No, Bottel can either rhyme with "hot sell" or "hotel" — take your choice. It was once "beauteille, became Anglicized, and now we answer to anything — but the present generation is swinging back to "Bow-tell." Confusing, isn't it? —H.

Tiller is black, hull red, and water and sky dark blue.

Brain Data Can Be Transmitted

By ROBERT GOLDENSTEIN
AP Science Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Evidence that specific information can be transmitted from one animal to another by means of brain extract injections was reported by two separate research groups today.

The experiments were with laboratory rats and mice, but Dr. Georges Ungar of Baylor University College of Medicine, Houston, Tex., said the findings "probably can be extended to some of the more complex mental processes" in humans.

Both research groups reported their results at the annual meeting of the Federation of American Societies for Experimental Biology.

Ungar said the probability of his findings being due to chance were "less than 1 in 1,000."

Dr. Walter B. Essman and Dr. Gerald M. Lehrer of the Department of Psychology, Queens College, City University of New York, the other research team, described their results as "very statistically significant."

Both experiments tested the ability of mice to escape from a maze.

Ungar trained a group of rats to escape from a Y-shaped maze by an arm lighted by an electric bulb. The other arm was dark and charged with electricity.

Extracts prepared from the brains of these trained animals then were injected into untrained rats or mice. A second group of rats and mice was given extracts from the brains of untrained laboratory animals.

Before the injections, slightly more than half of each group chose the lighted escape route.

In later tests, more than three-quarters of the mice who had received brain extracts from trained animals chose the lighted or shock-free escape route. The other mice followed the same escape routes they chose before injections from untrained animals.

"Over 400 animals have now been tested in various learning situations and overall results indicate a very high probability that some specific learned information has been transferred from the trained donors to the recipients," Ungar said.

Essman and Lehrer used the same extract injection technique to test the effects on animals seeking a left or right escape from their maze. They obtained from the brain cells of trained mice an extract of ribonucleic acid, a substance involved in the transmission of hereditary traits.

They found that the majority of mice which were injected with extract from the brains of mice taught to select the left-hand escape route followed that path. A right-handed pattern prevailed among mice receiving extract from mice taught to leave by that route.

Ungar said learned information can be transferred by chemical means and that "the chemical nature of its coding can hardly be doubted."

He theorized that nerve cells in the brain are labeled by a specific chemical molecule and that when the cells of two different channels are activated simultaneously "they exchange their chemical labels and thereby establish a new connection between the two channels."

SHIRLEY ANDERSON

MAGNOLIA, Ark. — The Fine Arts Division of Southern State College will present a show of original paintings by Miss Shirley Anderson of Prescott at the College Center here April 17-23.

The public is invited to see the exhibit, according to Dr. Robert Campbell, fine arts chairman. Hours will be from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and there will be no admission charge.

A Junior art major at Southern State, Miss Anderson began exhibiting her work at the Southern Illinois University Spring Show in 1962, winning the Best of the Year award. She has continued to exhibit at shows in Alton, Zion and Waukegan, Ill., her last show having been at Mount Prospect, Ill., in October, where several of her paintings were sold.

She is a graduate of Prescott High School and the daughter of Mrs. Pearl Anderson of Sherwood Drive, Prescott. She attended Southern Illinois University and worked in Chicago before enrolling at Southern State last September.

Miss Anderson is a member of the Lake County Arts League and the Lake County-Waukegan Arts Council, an associate member of Allied Artists of America, Inc., and a candidate member of Artists Equity Association, Chicago chapter.

This is Miss Anderson's first show in Arkansas, her home state and Southern State College welcomes the opportunity to acquaint the people of the area with the work of an artist of her ability, Dr. Campbell said.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "The Joey Bishop Show," presided over by a very nervous host, took off in a shaky, thoroughly disorganized style on ABC Monday night.

It probably will settle down ultimately and assume some of the smooth operation of its prototype, the long-playing "Tonight Show" on NBC — that is, if Joey ever stops thanking people for coming to see him.

The 90-minute late evening show is a frank copy of its NBC competition in everything, including its faults.

Bishop is installed behind the traditional desk with the guest accommodations on his right. Like his East Coast rival, he keeps fishing behind his chair to produce an endless assortment of products. The commercials continually interrupted the show. I counted 10 during the first 30 minutes.

The first program should have provided considerably more entertainment than it did. Gov. Ronald Reagan was the first celebrity guest. Since neither he nor Bishop seemed prepared, it was a long confrontation broken by awkward pauses.

Bishop moved into the audience and introduced a few celebrities and his wife. Debbie Reynolds turned up and described her work as a Girl Scout leader but was snapped off short when she started to do some amusing impressions of stars. Danny Thomas was in his usual reverent, patriotic and humble form.

Bishop's "side kick" is a Dennis Day-ish sort of fellow named Regis Philbin. "That's Greek for Hugh Downs," said Bishop. He seemed to have little to do except take abuse from the comedian.

It was a pretty awful beginning.

"Saga of Western Man" is an over-all title for a series of ABC specials which seem to cover almost any subject that interests its producer, John Secondari. His attention has been fixed on such diverse subjects as Michelangelo, the voyages of Columbus, Custer's defeat and — Monday night — the ill-fated expedition led by British navy Captain Robert Scott to the South Pole in 1912.

The program showed some old motion picture film and photographs of members of the expedition. Douglas Fairbanks read from Scott's journal, kept up to the time the men perished from exposure, cold and lack of food on the long trip back from the pole.

Most effective was color film made to illustrate the tiny beauty of that white lonesome place, and the terrible rigors undergone by men and animals.

ABC's Easter Day return of the motion picture "The Rose" was the single most popular program in the two weeks ending April 2, according to a national Nielsen report released Monday. It pushed its competition, NBC's "Bonanza" into ninth place in the list of top 10 shows and knocked CBS's Smothers Brothers comedy hour down to 56th in the list of 100 programs.

Other programs in the Nielsen top 10 were CBS's "Red Skelton Show," "Andy Griffith Show," "Lucy Show," and "Corney Pyle," NBC's "Dean Martin Show," CBS's "Green Acres" and "Daktari" and Friday night movies.

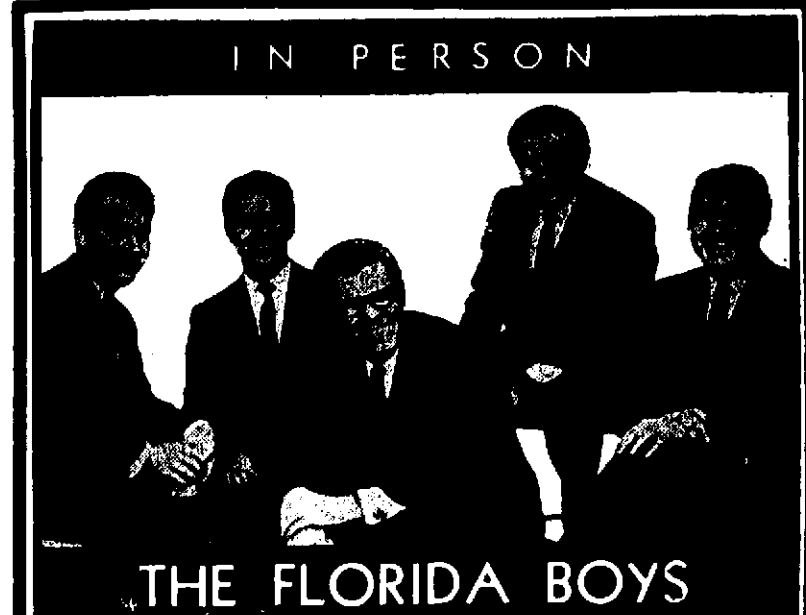

CBS led the average ratings with 19.1, followed by NBC with 17.8 and ABC 17.5.

The United States population increased by 18 per cent in the 1950s, but the growth was uneven. More than half of the counties in the nation actually lost people.

JUST THE THING for a date in Vietnam with members of the U.S. 4th Division, says model Brenda Munz of California. The GIs invited her after seeing her in an advertisement for which she modeled. For the trip, Brenda rearranged battle fatigues into a minicostume, complete with white boots.

Old Pirate Turns on Ex-Mates

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
PITTSBURGH (AP) — New York Met pitcher Don Cardwell is giving his old Pittsburgh Pirate teammates something to remember him by—headaches.
Cardwell, frequently the butt of jokes by Pirate fans for his inability to complete more than one game last season with the Bucs, went 7-2-3 in Monday night and was credited with a 9-6 victory over the Pirates.
What's more, he slammed a home run over the 406-mark in left center, driving in two runs.
"I like to beat anybody, not only the Pirates," said the 31-year-old right-hander when asked if he received any particular kick in beating his former teammates.
Cardwell expressed some bitterness when he was traded to the Mets last December after four seasons with the Bucs, saying Pirate Manager Harry Walker didn't use him right last year.
"There's no longer any animosity between Walker and me," Cardwell said. "I said something and it was my opinion."
Last year, Cardwell appeared in 32 games, started 14, completed one and wound up with a 6-6 record with the Pirates who finished third in the National league race.
Although it's early in the season, the veteran pitcher seems stronger on the mound as evidenced in Monday night's performance and in his season opener last Wednesday, also against the Pirates.
In that game, Cardwell pitched like a winner, but the Mets played like losers, committing five errors. He held the Pirates at bay until the ninth inning when they broke a 3-3 tie and won 6-3, handing Cardwell the loss.
The story was reversed Monday night with the Mets jumping off to a 9-3 lead at the end of five innings. The Pirates, tabbed by the oddsmakers as the National league team to beat this year, committed four errors in those five innings and over-all used five pitchers who gave up 11 hits.
Cardwell's homer, the 15th of his career, came in the second with Jerry Grote on with a double.
Willie Stargell smacked a two-run homer in the eighth off Cardwell. Ron Taylor came on in relief to preserve the victory despite giving up a pinch-hit homer to Manny Jimenez with two outs in the ninth.
The game was the only one played Monday in the majors. The others, Chicago at Philadelphia, Washington at New York and Cleveland at Minnesota, were rained out.
Passat, the last great square-rigged sailing ship to engage in commercial trade, was retired in 1949. It is now berthed in Hamburg, Germany.

TWO TIGERS may be needed in the tank of Bob Reisner's car, with two motors powering the hand-built creation, the "Invader." Reisner of Torrance, Calif., displayed it at the International Auto Show in New York. Two 400-cubic-inch engines give the car 1,000 horsepower, and make it capable of speeds over 200 m.p.h. The car is eight feet wide, 15 feet long and cost $40,000 to build.

U.S. Soviet Track Split Is Healing

NEW YORK (AP) — The split in athletic relations between the United States and Russia, caused by the Soviet withdrawal from a track meet between the two countries last year, is showing signs of healing.
The Russians indicated Monday that they are ready to begin discussing ways of making payments to compensate for the cost of preparations of the meet that was canceled last June.
Russia withdrew from the meet, scheduled for Los Angeles, as a protest against American participation in the war in Vietnam.
Col. Donald Hull, executive director of the Amateur Athletic Union, said Monday that he had received a letter from Russian officials suggesting several methods of making the payments.
Hull said the officials had offered to make the payment in rubles to be spent by American officials in Russia or to be used for travel expenses of Russian and American athletes in exchange competition.
Hull said the second method would probably be used, because the U.S. State Department opposed payment in rubles. He said the final settlement would probably be about $100,000.

Toronto Is Now Facing Elimination

By JOE MOOSHIL
Associated Press Sports Writer
TORONTO (AP) — Facing possible elimination in the Stanley Cup semifinal series against Toronto tonight, Coach Billy Reay of the Chicago Black Hawks sharply criticized the delaying of hockey games because of television commercials.
Action repeatedly was halted in Saturday's 4-2 loss to Toronto in Chicago in order to complete commercials while referee John Ashley waited for the go-ahead from the broadcast booth.
"If they want to televise hockey," moaned Reay, "then they have to adapt to the game. We've been drilled that this is a game of continuous action."
"Now all of a sudden, we have to wait for commercials. If a coach argues and causes a delay in the game, whack, he's slapped with a penalty."
"This is a game of constant action. It always has been, and that's the way it should be played. There's nothing more frustrating for the players than to have to stand around and wait to get started again. Especially so when one team is hot."
Reay's attitude is understandable. His Black Hawks, champions of the National Hockey League for the first time, must win Tuesday night or be eliminated by Toronto which has a 3-2 edge in the best-of-7 series.
If the Hawks win, the series goes to Chicago Thursday night for the final game to decide which team will face Montreal in the championship series. Montreal eliminated New York in four straight games.

Clay Now to Try His Religion

CHICAGO (AP) — If he loses his legal battle, which sagged under a Supreme Court ruling Monday, heavyweight champion Cassius Clay says he will appear at his scheduled April 28 Army induction in Houston and "stand on my religious beliefs."
Clay, whose pleas for exemption as a Black Muslim minister have been rejected by draft officials, said that his religion forbids sighting and killing in wars.
"I will stand up for my religious beliefs even if it means I am put in jail for 50 years or am stood up in front of machine guns," he said.
"I am ready to suffer for my religion and take any punishment. I pray five times a day and am calling on Allah."
Asked if his appearance for induction would bring his refusal to take the oath, Clay replied, "I'm not saying that, but I've made my decision and I will give it at that time. You can make your own conclusions when I say I will stand on my religious beliefs and will be ready to face any punishment in order to follow them."
The U.S. Supreme Court denied Monday without comment Clay's request for an injunction to block his April 28 induction. This was followed in Cincinnati with the 6th U.S. Circuit of Appeals turning down an injunction to halt the induction pending an appeal from a decision by Judge James F. Gordon of U.S. District Court in Owensboro, Ky.
Judge Gordon had refused to grant Clay's plea in March that he should be exempt because he is a Black Muslim minister. The court also denied a request to order Judge Gordon to impanel a three-judge court to consider the original case.
Clay's attorney, Hayden Covington of New York, had claimed that a three-judge court was necessary to consider constitutional questions raised in Clay's behalf.
Covington indicated legal maneuvering still was in the works.
"This is only the 10th round of a 15-round decision and I can tell you definitely there will be 15 rounds," said Covington after the Supreme Court ruling.
Covington said he will appeal again to the Supreme Court on Wednesday. He said he would ask the court to reconsider its decision.

Boxing Has a Brand New Golden Boy

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Boxing had a new Golden Boy today in handsome Nino Benvenuti, Italy's first world middleweight boxing champion on his decisive upset of Emile Griffith in a spectacular 15-round fight.
"Sure, I'll be happy to fight him again," said the 28-year-old as he left Madison Square Garden Monday night with the resounding cheers of the pro-Benvenuti crowd of 14,251 still ringing in his ears after his unanimous decision victory.
"We'd like to put on the return bout in the Garden in July," said Harry Markson, the Garden's director of boxing who was pleased with the $141,799 gate for the televised fight.
"It was a sensational fight and should be a complete sell-out. There's a handshake agreement between the managers for the return fight but I'd like to get it on paper."
Benvenuti, called The Intellectual in Italy because he likes to read books and talk about them, certainly had the book on the 29-year-old Griffith.
The fast-punching Italian, taller by 3½ inches and heavier by 5½ pounds—159 to 153½, dropped the 13-6 favored champion in the second round with a short right and was floored himself by a long right in the fourth.
Nino used his weight, height and reach — 75 inches to 72 — advantages effectively, spearing his foe with stiff left jabs, snapping left hooks and right and left uppercuts to the head. When Griffith tried to storm in, Nino met his rushes with well-timed blows to the head.
The pro-Benvenuti crowd roared "Nee-no, Nee-no, Nee-no" as the challenger finished with a flourish, taking the final round with a determined attack even though he had the decision wrapped up.
Referee Mark Conn and judge Leo Birnbaum each had Benvenuti the winner on rounds, 10-5. Judge Al Berli had it 9-6 for Nino. The Associated Press scorecard had Benvenuti in front, 10-5.
The challenger was nicked on the bridge of his nose in the second round and cut deeply in the same place by an accidental butt in the seventh round. Griffith's left eye was half closed and he was lumped under the

Japs Favored Again to Win BBA Marathon

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP) — Japanese stars, who have made a shambles of the Boston A.A. Marathon the last two years, are expected to make the Patriots' Day run another personal duel Wednesday in the 71st annual classic.
The four-man Japanese contingent heads a record field of 735 entries for the 26-mile, 38½-yard run from a starting line on a narrow rural road in Hopkinton to the finish at the 52-story Prudential Building in Boston.
With 195 entries more than last year and "about 400 more than normal," even veteran race director Will Cloney shudders when he thinks of the starting shot at high noon.
"I'm afraid it may be more of a stampede than a race," Cloney said with a smile.
The Japanese are favored to become the first foreign nation to win the BAA test three straight years. With Morio Shigematsu setting a course record of 2 hours, 16 minutes, 33 seconds they finished 1-2-3-5-6 in 1965. They swept the top four places last year.
The Japanese runners figure to try and run opponents into the ground — once they pull out of the jam and avoid getting trampled. They run as a team in crushing competition for 20-23 miles and then pour it on as individuals in a virtual sprint for top honors. Tooru Terasawa, 32, who finished third a year ago, looms as the favorite as the leader of three newcomers from Japan. The others are Hidekuni Hiroshima, 29, Yutaka Aoki, 22, and Takashi Inoue, 23.
Pressing the Japanese, at least at the start, will be Dave McKenzie, the New Zealand champion for two years; Antonio Aoba, 31, winner of the Italian title in four of the last five years; Finnish champion Klevi Ihakki; British Royal Navy Petty Officer Dan McFadden; Fidel Negrete of Mexico, and Canada's Andy Boychuk and Ron Wallingford.

"I knew I had him after the sixth round," said Benvenuti. "I trained for this like I never trained before. I wanted very much to knock him out but I'm very happy that I won. I wanted it so much."
"The kid won a beautiful fight," conceded Griffith. "He's a wonderful champion, and I hope to fight him again. I enjoyed the fight, I really did."
"But even Sandy Koufax got knocked out of the box once in a while."
Griffith referred to the former pitching great of the Los Angeles Dodgers who retired from baseball after last season.
Griffith had won eight straight title fights as a welterweight and then middleweight champion.
He won the middleweight crown from Dick Tiger a year ago and then beat Joey Archer in two defenses, all in New York. His over-all record is 52-8.
Benvenuti's record is 72-1. His only defeat was a disputed 15-round decision that cost him the world junior middleweight crown at Seoul, South Korea, last June 25. He was edged by Korean Ki Sim-Soo.

Offensive Given Some New Plays

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — University of Arkansas coach Frank Broyles gave the offense some new plays Monday so "the defense won't be able to read you."
Broyles said the Porks still have "a lot of learning to do in all phases."
Broyles looked at films of the Razorbacks' Saturday scrimmage and said linebacker Alvin Jones played well. He also complimented the blocking of guard Jim Barnes and tackles Ernie Ruple and Webb Hubbell.
"David Cox caught the ball real well today," said Broyles. "And Gordon Norwood had his best day throwing."

Sharman Is Hopeful for Warriors

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Coach Bill Sharman hopes his San Francisco Warriors find their shooting eyes and rebounding strength in the friendly Cow Palace gallery tonight.
Trailing 2-0 and with their backs to the wall in the best-of-7 final National Basketball Association playoff series, the Warriors are home to resume battle with Wilt Chamberlain and the Philadelphia 76ers.
"In baseball they say pitching is 80 per cent of the game and in basketball I'd say rebounding is 70 per cent," declared Sharman. "They killed us on the boards," 101 to 81.
He referred to the 126-95 lacing the Warriors took in Philadelphia on Sunday after losing the opener in overtime 141-135.
Winning two straight and the NBA title in San Francisco could be sweet revenge to 76er Coach Alex Hannum, who was fired as the Warrior coach last year.
The 7-foot, 1-inch Chamberlain, Most Valuable Player in the loop, might also gain extra satisfaction. The Warriors traded him to Philadelphia in 1965.
San Francisco had good news from the casualty contingent with word that 6-11 Nate Thurmond will play. The big pivotman, a key to the Warriors' rebounding, suffered an injured hip in Philadelphia on Sunday.
The hip still is sore but Nate will play. There's no such assurance for Fred Hetze, who teams with Rick Barry in the forward spots. Although X rays showed no fracture, his left ankle still is sore.
Barry also is troubled with a bum left ankle but shots and tape will have him ready to go although he lacks the balance which made him the league's leading scorer.
During the regular season, the 76ers held a 6-2 margin over San Francisco. On the other hand, the Warriors haven't lost this season in the Cow Palace, winning three regular season games and five playoff encounters.

Co-Education Was Issue Back in '91

Hope Female College Prospectus of 1891-92 Indicates School Dropped Its Small-Boy Students in That Season

The Hope Female College, pictures of which appear on this page, operated here at the close of the last century. The building stood on Fulton street, between Fourth and Fifth.

It was a girl's school, but boys under the age of 14 were permitted to attend through the spring of 1891. The school was chartered in 1888. The enrollment in 1890 was 166.

The top photograph shows the entire student body the spring of 1891, when the first class of girls was graduated. Members of that graduating class were:

Miss Kate Jones, now Mrs. Floyd Porterfield; Miss Cora Herron, now Mrs. Pye, of El Dorado; Miss Rebecca Hinton, now Mrs. Will McKinney of Little Rock; and Miss Kate Jamison, now Mrs. Sid B. Henry.

Mrs. Finley Ward, 415 North Hervey street, Hope, owns a prospectus which the college issued the following season, in the school year 1891-92.

Trustees that year were listed as follows:

C. A. Bridgwell, president; Judge H. G. Bunn, the Rev. E. M. Munroe, Captain W. D. Lieper, Dr. W. B. Foster, vice-president; the Rev. J. C. Williams, the Rev. J. S. VanMeter, James S. Wilson, and the Rev. A. J. Chatham, secretary and treasurer.

There was a change in the faculty. P. F. Witherspoon appearing as president in place of Charles McKee, who headed the school in the year the class photograph was taken, 1891.

Co-education was a moot question back in those days.

The prospectus for the following year, 1891-92 declares:

"This institution has passed into the hands of Ouachita Presbytery, every member of which now feels an individual interest in its success. As the name indicates, it will be devoted exclusively to the education of females. It thus recommended itself, not only to the members of Ouachita Presbytery, but to all, irrespective of religious creed, who hail with delight the return to the good old method of separate female education.

"Never in the history of our country were its female schools and colleges brought so decidedly into requisition as within the past few years. The old schools are crowded to their utmost capacity, and new ones are springing up on every side.

Loyal to South

"Each returning fall witnesses trainloads of young ladies, daughters of Arkansians and Texas, going back to the older states to secure for themselves the advantages of separate female education that are not to be obtained at home.

"It was this want of a home-school that led the citizens of Hope to establish this college, and it should be the pride of every Southerner to aid in sustaining it.

"Each pupil will attend the Sabbath-school and church selected by her parents.

"This is a Christian country. The Bible is the keystone of the arch of American liberty. Education without the Bible means infidelity; and infidelity means social, religious and political ruin."

Spring Hill Owned the First College

A. R. Banks' Academy, First in Arkansas, Established 100 Years Ago

By Virginia Fitzsimmons Hicks
As Arkansas celebrates her one hundredth birthday, Hempstead county can also celebrate the establishment of the first college in the state, at Spring Hill one hundred years ago.

This college was a Female Academy established by Mrs. A. R. Banks, whose aunt, Henrietta Fitzhugh, was a grandniece of George Washington. Mrs. A. R. Banks was the former Mary Fitzhugh Macon who with her husband, the Rev. A. R. Banks, a Presbyterian minister, came to Hempstead county in 1836 and settled at Spring Hill, then a thriving aristocratic little town.

This old couple were the great-grandparents of Mrs. Lenna Leiper Ward of Hope, and establishes the fact that she is a descendant of the Father of Our Country.

I quote from an old scrap book of Mrs. Ward's—which is a good history of Hempstead county and southwest Arkansas in itself—the following from a very old edition of Reynolds' Arkansas History:

"No reference to the Mt. Holly church would be complete without the mention of the Rev. A. R. Banks, who came from South Carolina in 1836 and settled at Spring Hill in Hempstead county. Mrs. Banks was educated at the celebrated school of Mrs. Willard at Troy, New York, and on her arrival at Spring Hill opened a female school which was liberally patronized by the people of Hempstead and the adjoining counties. In 1847 or 1848 the school was moved to Minden, Louisiana, but was subsequently transferred to El Dorado, in Union county, Arkansas, then a prosperous and growing town on account of the superior advantages it offered for larger patronage and greater usefulness.

"Mrs. Banks' scholarly attainments have rarely been equaled, and her aptitude for imparting instruction admirably qualified her as principal of a female school of the highest grade of excellence. Her school was never located at Mt. Holly, but was liberally patronized by members of the Mt. Holly church, whose daughters commencing with her at Spring Hill, followed her to Minden, and then finished their school days with her at El Dorado. And many are now living of the descendants of those she educated who will say 'My mother received her training in Mrs. Banks' school.'"

First Observations in All Arkansas Kept by Hempstead County's First Physician, Dr. Nathan Douglas Smith

Mrs. Edith Smith Stuart, of Hope, is the great-great-granddaughter of Dr. Nathan Douglas Smith, who was the first licensed doctor in Hempstead county and was the first man to keep an authentic record of the weather—which is now in the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D. C.

Dr. Smith was educated in New York state and came from there to New Orleans by boat. From papers in the possession of his heirs it is evident that he came South with some idea of studying the weather as well as to practice medicine.

Upon his arrival in New Orleans, which was about 1800, he came in contact with people from Washington, Ark., who were down there to sell their cotton. Their description of this country interested him and he decided to return with them and settle in Hempstead county, which he did. He was only about 18 or 20 years of age when he came to this country and he lived until the early 60's. The exact date of his death is not known. His son Franklin, was one of the very early teachers of this county, living near Columbus. His great-grandson, who is Ernest W. Smith, lives about six miles west of Nashville, Ark.

The following is the Introduction to the Record or Meteorological Tables kept by Dr. N. D. Smith, which is the property of the Smithsonian Institution, and is self-explanatory:

The Meteorological Tables here presented, form one set of a number of daily records, published by the Smithsonian Institution, to exhibit the simultaneous condition of the weather in different parts of the Continent of North America, during a series of years. This set is from the records of Dr. N. D. Smith, of Arkansas, and may be relied on for regularity, and for as much accuracy as the means at the command of the observer would allow him to attain.

The following remarks relative to the instruments and the character of the country, are from the pen of the observer:

"Agreeable to your request, I herewith transmit to you a copy of my Record of the Weather, for the past twenty years. It has been kept, intermingled with my diary of events and business, for the satisfaction of myself and family, without the expectation of its being appreciated beyond my household circle. But, since you deem it worthy of acceptance, it is freely presented to the Smithsonian Institution.

"My thermometer has hung all the time in the same place, in the open air, in the window-frame, outside of the sash, on the north side of the house eight feet above the ground, and protected from any injurious reflection. My rain-gauge is a deep tin cup, set on the ground, in an exposed spot in the garden, and the rain measured after every fall, by a rule graduated to tenths of an inch.

"My residence, where the observations were made, is on the summit of the dividing ridge between the waters of the Red River and those of the Washita, fifteen miles northeast of Fulton, and twenty south of those of Little Missouri. From this ridge there is no higher level for a long distance; but to the northwest, there is a gradual ascent for about fifty miles to the foot of the mountains.

His Observations
"It will be seen by the tables that we have sufficient alternations of heat and cold, rain and sunshine, to diversify our weather. A very large proportion of our rains fall in the night-time and are generally accompanied with thunder. During the summer we seldom have any but local showers, and these, though sometimes heavy, are of limited extent. Thus, some localities may be deluged with rain, while others, within a few miles, are at the same time parched with drought.

"Hempstead county is bounded on the south by Red River, which winds in a serpentine course through a valley of from eight to twelve miles in width, much the largest portion of slightly elevated above the surrounding timbered land, and was originally clothed with a tall fine grass. The soil, beneath the dark broken surface mould, is a dark red clay, twenty to thirty feet deep, through which wells have been sunk into a quicksand filled with water. The surrounding timber is of gigantic size, consisting of black walnut, pecan, mulberry, oak of different species, cottonwood, cedar, osage orange, with many other species, and thickly interspersed with large cane. These prairies are very distinct in their character from those of the uplands, and only resemble them in being dearth of timber. Ascending northwardly from the river valley, we pass over an elevated timber ridge, generally level, diversified with ridge and valley, finely watered, soil of several varieties, sandy with pine, clay loam with oak, hickory, and dogwood and occasionally a tract of prairie.

About Washington
"Washington, the county town, is situated on a sandy pine hill, in about the center of the county, in latitude 33° 42', one hundred and fifty miles west of the Mississippi, fourteen miles northeast from Fulton, on Red river and on an elevation of about six hundred feet above the bed of Red river, immediately south. To the north and west of the town are the upland prairies. The prairies exhibit a very interesting appearance in a geological point of view. Where they join upon the timbered land, the change is abrupt, from tall timber to naked rock. Tall pine, oak and hickory, with their roots imbedded in a tough ferruginous clay, grow to the very margin, the line of junction resembling the shore of a lake. The naked prairie is the soft limestone that underlies, at various depths, this whole southwestern region. It has been penetrated by the auger, in attempting to procure water by boring Artesian wells, to the depth of four hundred and fifty feet, without any material change in its character, except occasionally a thin stratum of sandstone. The rock is soft enough to be cut with a knife, and yet cisterns excavated in its substance will hold water and preserve it in purity during any length of time. The chemical composition, so far as I have been informed, is 85 per cent of carbonate of lime, with a small proportion of silica, and indistinctly combined with alumina, so that, when exposed to the atmosphere, the moisture absorbed causes it to fall to powder. The naked prairie has the appearance of having been denuded of its superstratum of clay and sand, and the surface produces a slight vegetation, which, being loosened by the action of frost, is ever ready to be washed by the rains to lower grounds, forming a soil of increasing depth as it descends, until, in the valleys, it sustains a growth of heavy timber and cane—a deep, black soil, composed essentially of lime and vegetable mould. Many of these valleys, or river and creek bottoms, are of considerable extent, and are continually increasing in width and depth of soil, by accretions of alluvium from higher grounds. This soil has the peculiar property of retaining moisture, and sustaining a drowth without material injury that would be fatal to crops on sandy uplands. The soil is scarcely surpassed in fertility, yielding equally well all the varied products of the North, and the cotton of the South.

"During the heat of summer, continued refreshing breezes pass over the elevated region, which render the climate pleasant and healthful." The reductions of the observations were made at the Smithsonian Institution.

JOSEPH HENRY
Secretary S. I.
Letter to Smithsonian

"Washington, Ark., Nov. 1, 1893
"Honorable Joseph Henry, Secretary of Smithsonian Institution.
"Dear Sir, Secretary of Smithsonian Institution.

"Herewith you will receive my report for October past. I regret much that neither my leisure nor habits permit me to make the Report so full as may be desirable. I am not always able to distinguish the difference of clouds, even by the help of the diagrams, and as for the higher and lower clouds we seldom have but one order at a time in this climate, and then only on the approach of a storm. But the noting of the thermometer and measuring the rain gauge are carefully attended to even in my occasional absence by some member of my family, as regularly as the winding of the clock. I have for some years past yielded to the competition of your government in the practice of my profession, and have devoted my time to the superintendence of my little farm, and of keeping stock in the ranges as my only means of support, and have kept my diary solely for my own satisfaction. Yet such as it is, it gives me much pleasure to have it appreciated and you may rely on receiving it as long as I am able to keep it.

"You mentioned in your last letter to me something of and expense of printing my journal, I fear you are somewhat deceived by your printer. I am confident that when I was a printer boy, 15 years of age, I could have set up a page of that work every day with ease and at a clean profit. While now nearly a year has passed since I transmitted to you my manuscript

"This correspondence is definitely closed.
"Nathan Douglas Smith.
The above letter written apparently shortly after his coming to Washington was never sent, and another of similar import was mailed later. For on the back of this letter there is one Dr. Smith wrote to his sister, back in New York, and this was mailed to her and has been preserved by the family. Evidently Dr. Smith and the Smithsonian Institution arrived at an agreement and he furnished them with a full weather report daily 37 years later from 1810 to 1880 or until his death. This authentic record is now in the Smithsonian Institution and so far as can be ascertained is the first authentic weather report ever kept in Arkansas.

Letter to Sister
Undated

"My Dear Sister:
"Willoughby received Thomas' letter in due time and will answer it shortly. He is at present much engaged in preparing and planting in corn, a piece of my new ground, which he has cleared this past fall. He has grown taller and larger than either of his brothers and is the only one that remains with me. Franklin is married and settled 14 miles from me. Hadley I haven't heard from since I last wrote to you. He had been punctual in writing every two months and his last states his intention of moving to a new locality. I much fear he has fallen a victim among the that are ever taking place among the minors.

"I was glad to hear of your health and prosperity and hope Thomas is getting well. But for us the past has been a disastrous one in many respects. My wife was an invalid for many months and in a dangerous case, but through the mercy of God is now in a great manner restored to health. The drowth set in last summer to cut off our crop of corn (our only crop) and followed by a heat far more intense and long continued than I have ever known. Crops of every kind suffered so bad at this time there is such a scarcity of provisions and provender as was never known before. And not only here, but throughout the whole southern country. The short crops have many people unable to pay their debts. Money is withdrawn from circulation. No cash sales can be effected for any description of profit. Merchants are unable to bring up their necessary supplies of goods, there is a real distress among many people, especially the poor. And to heighten the calamity, the politicians and demagogues of the South produced a general excitement against the people of the North, for electing a president unacceptable to them and raised a cry of revolution and suspicion. The public's mind has been agitated to the extreme. Seven states, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas have declared their separation from the Union, and established a separate independent government, styled the Southern Confederacy. Violent agitation has prevailed in this state also, but our Convention has decided to remain in the Union for the present. All the states where slavery exists have sounded themselves to the cry, procuring arms, training the militia as if preparing for war. May God in his providence oust the evil and bring the people to their senses!"

The above letter written at least 37 years after the letter to the Smithsonian Institution was composed, was never finished. For during the last twenty years Dr. Smith had been furnishing the weather record to the Institute and it is very evident that his death occurred shortly after the letter to his sister was written.

Stop Chills and Fever!

Rid Your System of Malaria!

Shivering with chills one moment and burning with fever the next—that's one of the effects of Malaria. Unless checked, the disease will do serious harm to your health. Malaria, a blood infection, calls for two things. First, destroying the infection in the blood. Second, building up the blood to overcome the effects of the disease and to fortify against further attack.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic supplies both these effects. It contains tasteless quinine, which kills the infection in the blood, and iron, which enriches and builds up the blood. Chills and fever soon stop and you are restored to health and comfort. For half a century, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic has been sure relief for Malaria. It is just as useful, too, as a general tonic for old and young. Pleasant to take and absolutely harmless. Safe to give children. Get a bottle at any drug store. Now two sizes—50c and $1. The $1 size contains 2½ times as much as the 50c size and gives you 25% more for your money.

11 Winners of Titles in Tournament

By KEN ALYTA
Associated Press Sports Writer
PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Winners of nine of the last 11 titles and four members of last year's U.S. Curtis Cup team were in the field of 32 that began match play today in the 65th Women's North and South Amateur Golf Tournament.

The luck of the draw had three of the Cup players in the bottom half after a qualifying round in which Mrs. Marlene Stewart Streitt of Willowdale, Ont., shot 72 Monday to win the medal.

Women's par is 74 for the No. 2 course of the Pinehurst Country Club, shortened to about 6,000 yards.

Barbara McIntire of Colorado Springs, Colo., twice national champion and four times the winner here, was in the talent-heavy bottom half of the draw. With her were Cup teammates Phyllis (Tish) Preuss of Pompano Beach, Fla., and Mrs. Helen Wilson of Gladwyne, Pa.

Miss McIntire was paired with Sandra Post, Canadian teen-ager. Miss Preuss, who won here three years ago and was runner-up for the second time last year, drew Greensboro, N.C., veteran Marge Burns, and Mrs. Wilson faced Mrs. George Howard of Rural Hall, N.C.

Mrs. Streitt, winner of the North and South in 1956 a few months before she won the U.S. title, drew Mrs. David Chaffee of Rumford, R.I., in an upper bracket match.

Curtis Cup player Mrs. Nancy Roth Syms of Hollywood, Fla., the defending champion and winner also in 1963, met Mary Wise of Chicago.

Drug Death Painful, Says Doctor

By DON NORTH
NAPLES, Fla. (AP) — A doctor who once had himself experimentally injected with the paralytic drug succinylcholine testified in the Carl Coppolino murder trial Monday that he would have died in pain without artificial respiration.

"Within 30 seconds I felt cramping pains in my legs, arms and chest," said Dr. Valentino Mazzia, professor and chairman of anesthesiology at New York University.

In another 30 seconds, Mazzia continued, he was completely unable to move and could not even ask his colleagues for water although his mind was alert to what was happening.

Mazzia said his facial muscles went limp almost immediately and the paralysis spread quickly to his arms, legs, trunk, chest and finally, the diaphragm — stopping voluntary breathing.

Mazzia and Dr. Bert La Du, professor and chairman of pharmacology at NYU, took the stand for the prosecution while the court studied a defense motion aimed at bringing the trial to conclusion without a jury decision.

Coppolino, 34-year-old anesthesiologist, is on trial for first-degree murder in the death of his first wife, Carmela, in 1965. The state says Coppolino gave her a fatal injection of succinylcholine to clear the way for his marriage to a wealthy divorcee.

Chief defense lawyer F. Lee Bailey sought to pull the rug out from under the state's case with a motion to strike six days of testimony by two star prosecution witnesses — Drs. Milton Helsen and Charles J. Umberger of the New York medical examiner's office.

The state has said it bases its circumstantial evidence case against Coppolino mainly on the opinions of Helsen and Umberger that the woman died of "a toxic overdose of succinylcholine."

These opinions, together with La Du's, were the sole evidence of cause of death — an essential to continuing the trial. Without a "criminal agent," the defense would be in a position to move for a directed verdict of acquittal.

Confidence in Apollo Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — An astronaut spokesman says spacemen will have full confidence in their Apollo craft — when changes are made to prevent a recurrence of the launch pad blaze that killed three of their fellow astronauts.

"We're confident in our management, our engineering and ourselves," said Col. Frank Borman, one of five astronauts who testified Monday night before congressmen investigating the Jan. 27 Apollo fire at Cape Kennedy, Fla.

He said they are eager to get on with the program to land men on the moon.

Borman told the congressmen, "I think the question really is: Are you confident in us?"

The congressmen clearly are. But they — and the astronauts — expressed some reservations.

Testifying with Borman at the start of the second week of congressional hearings on the accident were Donald K. Slayton, Navy Capt. Walter R. Schirra Jr. and Alan B. Shepard Jr. and Air Force Lt. Col. James A. McDivitt. They appeared before a House subcommittee that oversees the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

While the astronauts had no doubts that the causes of the fire could be overcome, they indicated there may be future dangers that cannot be anticipated.

Strikers in Key Plant Back on Jobs

STRATFORD, Conn. (AP) — Most striking production workers at Avco's Lycoming Division plant — a key producer of helicopter engines for the Vietnam war — reported back to work Monday under an order from a federal judge.

Judge William H. Timbers issued a 10-day restraining order earlier Monday in U.S. District Court against the strike and set a hearing April 25 on the government's request for a Taft-Hartley injunction that would bring about an 80-day cooling-off period.

The Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service announced in Washington that union and company negotiators will resume at 10 a.m. Wednesday in Stratford.

The announcement said Robert Moore, deputy director of the mediation service, and Commissioner John J. Morton of the New York office will participate in the talks.

Both company and strikers "expressed a desire to resume bargaining for a new contract as soon as possible," the mediation service announced.

The order from Judge Timbers came after the beginning of the first shift Monday morning. A company spokesman said most workers had returned by the second shift Monday afternoon and that "nearly all" had reported for the third shift Monday night.

President Johnson had directed the attorney general Sunday to seek an injunction "to remove a peril to the national safety."

The plant manufactures T53 engines and parts used in the Huey group of helicopters produced by Bell Helicopter of Fort Worth, Tex.

The strike by the 4,088-member Local 1010 of the United Auto Workers Union began Sunday but the company lost only the one full production shift Monday morning.

In U.S. District Court in New York, attorney Carl Eardley asked that the hearing on the restraining order be sufficient for an injunction order.

Wages, supplemental unemployment benefits, and pension, welfare and insurance benefits are at issue, according to a union official.

The present wage scale, he said, varies from $1.97 to $3.37 an hour.

The restraining order also enjoins a smaller union of clerical and laboratory workers at the plant from striking in five days when its contract expires.

Haiti Blasts From Rivals, Not Enemy

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ
PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Two explosions which occurred during a celebration of President Francois Duvalier's rule last weekend are believed to have been the result of rivalry within the Haitian dictator's regime and not the work of his enemies.

Three or four persons were reported killed and about 40 wounded by the blasts in Port au Prince Saturday night during festivities celebrating Duvalier's 60th birthday and the 10th anniversary of his taking office.

The first explosion occurred about 5 p.m. in the Champs de Mars Park about 100 yards from the front gate of the white National Palace. Informants said a small bomb was placed in or near the pushcart of a street peddler selling ices.

The blast was reported to have killed a small girl and cut off the peddler's right leg. Most of the crowd didn't notice because a procession of nine foreign beauty queens trailed by a crowd of revelers was passing the palace at the time. But Duvalier saw the explosion from a second-floor window of the palace, donned a helmet and with an armed escort inspected the damage.

The second explosion occurred three hours later near the Port au Prince cemetery about a mile from the palace. It was said to have caused the most casualties. Informants said a charge was thrown under a busload of musicians.

Asked about the second explosion, one government source said a load of fireworks went off by accident but injured no one. But Duvalier made a radio appeal for protection of the celebration; and several thousand armed volunteer militiamen were rushed to Port au Prince Sunday.

The festivities ended Sunday night, the denim-clad militiamen left the capital, and Port au Prince was quiet Sunday.

Observers believed the incidents were triggered by rivals of Luc Albert Foucard, a son-in-law of Duvalier who was recently appointed minister of tourism. They said Foucard's foes apparently wanted to embarrass him and the Duvalier regime.

Foucard is reported to have made sweeping changes in his department and fired several key officials. His rivals were said to include Duvalier's other son-in-law, Lt. Col. Max Dominique, the military commandant of Port au Prince. Some observers predicted a power struggle between the brothers-in-law.

Duvalier's celebration began on April 14, his birthday. He was elected president May 22, 1957, and had himself re-elected to a life term June 22, 1964.

The 19 astronauts that took part in the Mercury and Gemini programs logged some 2,000 manhours in space and flew a combined total of more than 15 million miles.

PROCLAMATION
WHEREAS, In many areas of the United States today respect for constituted authority, law and order, and the principle of the supremacy of the law, are being recklessly challenged.

The rights and freedoms which Americans accept as their birthright are made possible only by unswerving public acceptance of and obedience to the rule of law. In today's complex society there is a particular need for understanding on the part of every citizen that respect for law is vital to the preservation of individual liberties and a free and orderly society.

The Congress of the United States, and the President, by official proclamation have designated May 1 as Law Day U.S.A. It is a day set aside for all Americans to reflect on our heritage of individual liberty under law and to focus attention on the responsibilities of citizenship. The theme for the 10th annual observance this year carries a timely message for every American: "No man is above the law, and no man is below it."

NOW THEREFORE, I, FINIS ODOM, Judge of Hempstead County, Arkansas, do hereby proclaim Monday, May 1, 1967, as LAW DAY U.S.A. in Hempstead County and call upon all citizens, organizations, churches, and schools to recognize this special day through appropriate programs.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Assassinating a President

To many foreigners, and to many Americans as well, one of the oddest aspects of the assassination of President Kennedy was that the United States had no law against it.

Was this just a legislative oversight? Not at all. On the contrary, such a law had been proposed and debated a number of times over the years—and had always been turned down.

Of course, that does not mean the assassination was legal. The lack of a federal law merely reflects the fact that, in this country, the punishment of crime has always been entrusted primarily to the individual states. The president tial assassination, while not forbidden by federal law, was clearly forbidden by the laws of every state.

Why this arrangement? For reasons both historical and geographical, most crimes fit more naturally into state and local jurisdiction. It would seem strange indeed to have the federal government prosecuting the man who holds up the corner grocery or who drives recklessly down Main Street.

And the Constitution itself, while giving the states a free hand to deal with crime, gives the federal government no such leeway. The federal government may punish crime only if the power is: 1) given expressly (for example, the power to punish treason); or 2) given by implication (for example, the power to punish interference with the United States mail).

As a rule, the crime of murder has no peculiar significance to the federal government. Neither expressly nor by implication does the Constitution give the federal government a general power to punish homicide.

Yet, murdering the President is more than just murdering a man. It is a blow at the government itself, because it destroys the central repository of the nation's executive authority.

Furthermore, as a practical matter, federal agencies—which have the duty to protect the President—should be better able to investigate such a crime.

The Kennedy assassination lent fresh urgency to these considerations. And at last, 176 years after the nation began, Congress has finally given overwhelming approval to a bill making it a federal offense to kill the chief executive. The maximum penalty: death.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Shaving is Best Method Of Removing Facial Hairs

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D. Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—I have stiff, ugly hairs growing on my chin. What causes them and what can be done to get rid of them?

A—This is a common problem. If the color of the unwanted hairs nearly matches that of your skin they would not be conspicuous, and hence not too bothersome. If the hairs are darker than your skin they can be bleached with hydrogen peroxide. Short-wave diathermy has been used to remove these hairs but the results are usually disappointing. The simplest treatment is to shave them off. This will not, as was once believed, cause the hairs to become coarser.

Chemical depilatories irritate the skin and, if left on for more than a few minutes, may cause a dermatitis. For this reason, it is better not to use them on your face. The only way to get rid of these hairs permanently is with an electric needle. Battery-operated needles for home use are not recommended because it takes an experienced operator to gauge how deep to insert the needle, how strong a current to use and how long to use it.

Q—Are hair dyes harmful if used for a period of years? Can they cause brain tumors?

A—The hair dyes and bleaches now sold or used in beauty parlors have been approved by the Food and Drug Administration. They will not cause brain tumors but will irritate the skin of some persons who are allergic to them. For this reason, a patch test with a weak solution of the dye should always be performed before the dye is applied for the first time.

Q—I lose a lot of hair every time I comb it. Vitamin E hasn't helped any. Is there anything I can do for it?

A—Often women who worry about their hair falling out are guilty of overindulgence in rinses, wave sets and hair sprays. Any rollers or curlers that make even a slight, steady pull on the hair can loosen it. Brisk brushing will stimulate the scalp and this is good but it is sometimes difficult to say when healthful brushing ends and excessive tug-of-war with your hair begins. It is, therefore, wise to avoid vigorous combing or brushing or the use of a brush with sharp synthetic bristles.

It is doubtful that vitamin E would benefit your condition. Avoidance of the aforementioned factors is important.

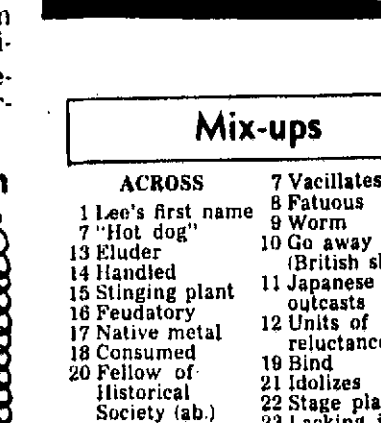

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Long before Sigmund Freud (1856-1939), the 17th-century Huron Indians of southern Ontario began treating illness by dream interpretation. According to The World Almanac, the Hurons believed that misfortune or illness often stemmed from a person's unfulfilled desires. These desires were revealed in dreams. An unhappy or sick man could be cured if, for example, his dream for a new canoe were satisfied.

Brain Transformations Lands Could Have Some Very Strange Complications

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Curbstone comments by a sidewalk Socrates:
What would happen if actress Jayne Mansfield were given an injection from the brain of the late mathematician, Dr. Albert Einstein?
Might it help make her figure better?
This and many another conjecture has been raised by two scientific experiments which indicate that specific information can be transmitted from one creature to another by brain extract injections.
The experiments at Baylor University's College of Medicine and Queens College of the city of New York were done on mice.
The problem for the mice was to learn their way out of a maze. Evidence was found that beginning mice solved the problem quicker when given injections of brain extract from other mice who had earlier learned the best way out of the maze.
Naturally, if this be true on a broad scale, it is too good a technique to limit to mice. If it helps them get out of a maze, why can't it also help people solve the problems of the human rat race?
Parents by the thousands will drag their churlish, reluctant children to scientific laboratories with such requests as:
"I want my son, Irving to be a doctor. What do you charge for three injections of medical brains? better yet, make him a specialist. How much for 10 injections?"
"My daughter I would like to see in Radcliffe. Her brains seem okay in English and gymnasium, but she's terribly weak in Ancient History brains, Greek brains, and Social Science brains. Can she get all the injections she needs today, or do you want her to come back tomorrow also?"
"Our little boy is fine in nursery school in everything but group attitude. His teacher says he is far too aggressive. Would you recommend perhaps an injection of mice brains to help give him a meeker personality?"
There are no end to the possibilities, of course.
A husband with a wife chronically unable to balance her bank account could well threaten her with divorce if she refused to be injected with brain extract from an obliging accountant.
A wife with a husband unable to earn her a decent living might want to mortgage their small home to raise funds to inject him with extract of a millionaire's brain.
There is also the probability that criminal syndicates would get into the act. They could start selling brain extracts of famous people on the black market, and secretly water them down with brain extract taken from Bowery bums and broken-down hose players, eager to make a fast buck.

Aside from the threat of chicanery involved in creating a mass brain extract market to help everyone achieve instant wisdom, there is a practical limitation: There aren't that many brains around. And most of the people with good brains aren't about to dilute them for the benefit of others. They choose to keep them for their own use.
As Euclid said long ago, "There is no royal road to learning."
Despite what science may do with mice, people will have to go on learning with the brains they were born with.

Attorneys to Appeal Speck Case

CHICAGO (AP) — Richard Speck, convicted Saturday of murdering eight nurses, was confined today in the Cook County jail 22 feet from the electric chair from which his attorney hopes to save him.
Speck was returned to a maximum security cell after a 160-mile ride to Chicago from Peoria, Ill., Monday. His trial was heard in Peoria on a defense plea that jurors from Chicago, where the eight young women were knifed and strangled July 14, would be prejudiced against Speck.
A jury of seven men and five women convicted him Saturday in Peoria and recommended execution.
Gerald W. Getty, public defender of Cook County who represents Speck, is preparing written arguments for a new trial to be presented to Judge Herbert C. Paschen May 15.
If a new trial is not granted, Getty plans to ask that the court hear from six psychiatrists before sentencing Speck. One of the psychiatrists, Dr. Marvin Ziporyn, assigned to the county jail, has already said he believes Speck was temporarily insane from the effects of drugs and alcohol at the time of the killings.
Getty hopes mitigating testimony may lead to a reduction in the sentence. Illinois law allows the trial judge to set aside a jury's recommendation of death and impose a prison sentence.
The public defender also is expected to appeal on grounds that photographs of the murdered girls shown to the jury by the prosecutors served only to prejudice and inflame the jurors against Speck.

Arabians to Be About Anti-All

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH
TA'IZZ, Yemen (AP) — The head of South Arabia's leading nationalist movement says his goal is an Arab "Socialist revolutionary" state that will be anti-British, anti-American and anti-Israeli.
Mild-mannered Abdul Qawee Mackawee, 47, former chief minister of the Aden Protectorate, told newsmen: "We will form a progressive government in the truest sense of the word. We will be an Arab Socialist republic. Our policy will be hostile to Britain, the United States and Israel alike."
Mackawee is secretary-general of FLOSY, the Front for the Liberation of Occupied South Yemen, the leading terrorist movement in Aden and the adjoining sheikhdoms which form the British-protected South Arabian Federation. Britain wants to pull out of the territory next year to save money.
FLOSY's exiled leaders are meeting at their headquarters in the Yemen republic's second largest city to discuss establishment of a government in exile. Mackawee's strong anti-Western statement surprised American officials who have maintained informal contacts with FLOSY in the hope of deflecting its future policies in a less anti-Western direction.
Mackawee described Israel as a pawn of Western imperialism in the Middle East and said a FLOSY regime in Aden "will certainly close the southern entrance to the Red Sea to Israeli shipping." The Western end of the protectorate commands the narrow channel between the Red Sea and the Gulf of Aden.
FLOSY says it will set up a one-party unitarian state, the South Arabian Republic. Financed and encouraged by President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic, the movement is committed to destroy the South Arabian Federation of sultanates which has the support of King Faisal of Saudi Arabia.
Egyptian troops stand guard outside FLOSY's two-story headquarters in Ta'izz, and all public utterances by FLOSY leaders are strictly in line with Egyptian policy. Privately, these leaders are more reserved about their future ties with Egypt and some say they do not want South Arabia to become an Egyptian satellite like the Yemen republic.
The FLOSY leaders have also modified their earlier position that South Arabia should be merged with Yemen immediately after independence. They now talk of holding a referendum on the subject and seem to play down even that possibility.

Attacking publication that the encyclical pointed toward a change in the church's traditional birth control teachings, L'Osservatore said the encyclical's brief reference to the problem "must be read in the context of the teaching of the church."
It pointed out that the Pope had reserved for himself alone a final decision on whether to change the rules and added: "It cannot therefore be supposed that the encyclical sought to anticipate the future document."

At the same time the general secretary of the church's world synod of bishops disclosed that the question of liberalizing the Catholic stand on birth control will not be discussed when the synod meets next September.

Senate Vote Drops Age of Retirement

By JOE HALL
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted to lower the Social Security retirement age to 60 for eligible workers willing to swap full-scale benefits for five years of leisure. But some senators view the measure as a tactical move in a separate battle.

Passed 55 to 28 Monday was an amendment by Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., that would give those who retire at 60 about 70 per cent of the benefits they would get if they kept working until age 65.

The Byrd amendment was tacked onto the administration's bill to restore major business tax incentives.

Pending as the debate on the tax bill resumes today, action on a proposed amendment to boost Social Security benefits $4 billion a year, raising the minimum monthly payment from $44 to $70.

Some senators saw in the continuing flood of amendments to the tax bill echoes of last week's bitter battle over the presidential election campaign financing law.

Opponents of the campaign law pushed through an amendment to the tax bill repealing the financing plan. But Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., author of the election financing measure and floor manager for the tax bill, pledged a fight to overcome the repealer.

Poes of the finance law believe its backers are trying to load the tax bill down with riders in hopes it might be easier to kill all the amendments when the bill goes to a Senate-House conference committee. The House passed the tax bill with little debate, but this is the third week of Senate consideration of the measure.

Byrd's amendment to lower the Social Security retirement age has cleared the Senate twice before. The House always has rejected it in conference.

Episcopals to Dedicate Service Book

At the Parish Eucharist at 8:30 a.m. Sunday (April 23rd) the Rev. Fred Hancock, Vicar of St. Mark's Episcopal Church will dedicate a new altar service book and a set of audio-visual equipment which have been given to the local church in memory of Kenneth Lyle Bilyeu, the grandson of Mrs. Helen Barlow, member of the congregation. The audio-visual equipment, consisting of projector, screen, and film-strip library, are for use in the Church Sunday School.

At the same service Father Hancock will also consecrate to God's service a chalice and paten, a green dossal and altar frontal, and a set of silver and white eucharist vestments. The dossal and frontal are a gift from the Women of St. Mark's and were made by Mrs. Gordon Tyler. The eucharist vestments, which are for use at the great festivals such as Christmas and Easter and at Nuptial Eucharists, were specially made for Father Hancock in England.

Senior Play to Be Staged April 20-21

The Hope High School Senior Play, "The Magic Touch," will be presented at three performances on April 20-21, matinees Thursday and Friday afternoons and a performance Friday night at 8 p.m.

Those working on the set are Mike Atkins, Larry Moses, Ronnie McCormick, and George Carrett.

The play is a comedy about a tom-boy and her gang and a social-climbing mother. Within the play there is a style show with a bevy of pretty girls and beautiful dresses.

Johnson Raps Faubus, WR

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller and former Gov. Orval Faubus are trying to build each other up in "powder puff skirmishes" according to Jim Johnson, the defeated Democratic gubernatorial candidate of 1966.

Johnson said Rockefeller would not be governor today if it were not for Faubus.

"When it appears they are fighting, I can't help but be reminded about the adage about the cats: Oftentimes when cats seem to be fighting, they are not fighting at all," said Johnson.

Johnson was referring specifically to a hint by Faubus at Fayetteville last Friday that he might seek some office in 1968 and a statement by Rockefeller Sunday that he would be ready if Faubus decides to run for governor.

Rock Tossing in Housing March in Ky.

By C. M. GILMOUR JR.
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Asserting the justness of civil disobedience, about 125 opponents of open housing marched for 2½ hours through Louisville's all-white south section Monday night, in violation of an injunction against night marches issued Friday by a city judge.

At least two Negroes were struck by flying rocks hurled by a jeering crowd from across the street and taken to physicians for treatment. Police packed 18 hecklers into police wagons and made several other arrests.

No marchers were arrested for violating the restraining order. City law director Eugene Alvey said "it would be decided later" if any demonstrators would be cited for contempt of court.

The Negro leadership is seeking to dissolve the injunction in U.S. District Court, claiming the order violates constitutional rights of assembly and petition.

At a meeting held before the march, the Rev. A. D. Williams King, brother of Dr. Martin Luther King, promised "to walk the streets until they cut the streets from under us" in pursuit of an ordinance which would prohibit discrimination in the sale or rental of homes.

King said it was within "God's law" to violate the injunction and said "an unjust law is as near nothing as you

Guidelines Issued for the American Society of Girl Watchers

By WILL GRIMSLEY
NEW YORK (AP) — It's molting season for both birds and girls and so the American Society of Girl Watchers issued guidelines today for its 5,000 members.

They are: Don't ogle. When passing a girl going the same direction, don't turn the head around and stare.

Don't use binoculars — except at races. Don't whistle, pinch, whisper or commit any other overt act. Maintain eye-ball control at all times.

"We don't have any particular season," said Don Sauers of Eastchester, N.Y., founder of the society. "In fact, some of our best card-carrying members think ski pants in Vermont are sexier than bikinis in Miami or miniskirts in Los Angeles."

"But this is the molting season when the girls all take off their heavy over clothing and get closer to nature. Our spring season starts the middle of April. At this time Fifth Avenue — between 42nd Street and Central Park — becomes the girl watchers' paradise of the world."

The society started as a gag out of the head of Sauers and grew into an institution.

Sauers, 44, father of five, was sitting around at lunch with some Madison Avenue pals about 10 years ago and a hip-

Student Body President Action of Russia Hurt Trade Plan

MACK McLARTY

Mack McLarty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McLarty of Hope, has been elected president of the University of Arkansas Student Body for 1967-68. He won over three other students and this was the first time that a fraternity man had won over a non-fraternity man. Mack is a member of Sigma Chi.

A graduate of Hope High School, Mack was elected Governor of Boys State in 1963. That same year he gave the keynote address to the National Junior Auxiliary Convention where he received a standing ovation. He was selected to represent our state as Arkansas' Junior Senator in Washington, D. C.

In his freshman year at the University, Mack was selected as a member of Cardinal XX, the twenty most outstanding freshman men. His fellow members elected him as their president.

Mack was appointed as a member of the Student - Faculty Athletic Commission, was chosen to attend the Arkansas Leadership Conference held at Petit Jean and served as Inter-Fraternity Council Rush Chairman for two years. He was selected as chairman of the all-important Transit System Committee.

Mack is a member of Blue Key, the national Leadership Fraternity and is presently serving as a justice on the Student Court. Despite the wide range of extracurricular activities, Mack has maintained a 3.70 grade average, majoring in banking and finance.

Mack was an outstanding student while in Hope High School. He was a member of National Honor Society, Mu Alpha Theta, Boys State, Junior Counselor for two years, Student Council for four years, was elected vice-president his junior year and president his senior year, Class president for two years, Top 16, Key Club for two years, FTA, MacArthur History Club, Spanish Club, played football for four years and was elected captain his senior year, basketball 4 years, All State one year, Track Gold, was elected Mr. Hope High School, received the Joe Amour Award for two years and the Student Efficiency Award.

Mack presented a 28-point progressive program to the 10,000 students at the University. They elected him president.

Swinging miss swung by the window, Sauers was suddenly struck with an idea.

"Bird-watchers have their own organization — the Audubon Society. I suggested there are more girl watchers than bird watchers. Girls are more fun to watch. They all agreed."

The society now occupies the quiet lush, four-story headquarters on 38th Street just off Park Avenue. It has members in 45 states and several foreign countries.

It has its own guide book, authored by Sauers; its own theme song, "Music to Watch Girls By," a popular ditty used by a soft drink firm; a lapel pin, just like the Elks, and a nine-article constitution.

The society is an affiliate of the Professional Sports Management Corp. "After all, there is no greater sport than girl watching," says the current president, Ray Baur, 40, of Westport, Conn., father of six.

Sauers says the purpose of the organization is to improve the climate of girl watching. "A survey shows that the girls, 100 per cent of them, like to be watched," the founder added.

Sauers said one of the rules is not to watch girls in restaurants. "That's like watching birds in a zoo," he said. "They should be watched in their natural habitat — walking on the streets."

S. Vietnam in Offer to Talk Peace

By ROBERT TUCKMAN
SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam offered anew today to talk peace with Communist North Vietnam and proposed that both sides pull back their forces from the demilitarized zone and de-escalate the war.

A U.S. spokesman said the South Vietnamese government discussed its proposal with U.S. officials before issuing it and the U.S. government welcomed the offer.

The South Vietnamese proposed peace talks amid continuing clashes in the northernmost provinces below the demilitarized zone and as 1,500 Saigon government troops launched a new drive in the Mekong Delta 42 miles southwest of the capital.

U.S. and South Vietnamese forces reported 90 of the enemy killed by ground forces and helicopter gunships in clashes near the northern border and about four miles from Hue, the old imperial capital. U.S. losses were three killed and seven wounded, a spokesman said. Government casualties were reported light.

A Vietnamese spokesman said government forces killed 15 Viet Cong guerrillas in the initial hours of the new drive in the Mekong Delta while taking no casualties.

Along the central coastal plains, the spearheads of two South Korean divisions neared a linkup in a drive from the north and from the south to open up a long stretch of the vital coastal Highway 1.

Advance elements of the Korean Tiger Division, driving southward from Song Cau, were reported about to join up with units of the White Horse Division pushing north from Tuy Hoa.

The linkup will close the 37-mile stretch between the two coastal cities and extend the central coastal stretch in allied hands to a distance of 235 miles from Qui Nhon to Tan Lam.

The drive, the South Koreans' biggest operation of the war, started March 8, and some 10,000 Korean troops from the two divisions were deployed in it. The Koreans have claimed killing 830 Communist troops and capturing 417.

The South Vietnamese peace offer was contained in a communique from the Foreign Ministry which welcomed peace proposals put forth April 11 by Canada. The communique broadly paralleled the four-stage Canadian proposals.

The Vietnamese government either side of the 17th Parallel, bring about peace in Vietnam and proposes specific courses of action such as the pullback from the demilitarized zone, inspection by the International Control Commission, further de-escalation of the conflict and talks, secret or otherwise.

"The government of the Republic of Vietnam," the communique said, "stands ready at any time to meet with or contact the Hanoi authorities either directly or through the good offices of a third party such as Canada."

The Canadian proposals called for "some disengagement, possibly in the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam, together with a cessation of U.S. bombing of North Vietnam and of Communist infiltration of the South, (2) freezing military action in South Vietnam at the present level, (3) cessation of all hostilities, and (4) withdrawal of forces on said it welcomed "all efforts to

A lawyer for the demonstrators did the same thing. He obtained a continuance of the cases of two other hecklers in police court.

Lands in Arms of the Police

STOCKPORT, England (AP) — Ronald Williams stole some lead from the roof of a house, slid down the drainpipe and landed in the arms of a police officer who was dressed in turquoise pajamas.

The police officer, Joan Wallace, 25, told a court Monday she saw a figure crouched on the roof across from her window as she prepared for bed.

"Hey, boy, what are you doing up there?" she called.

Williams, 24, slid into her arms.

He pleaded guilty to stealing the lead and was jailed for six months.

"We are supposed to make an arrest whatever the time or circumstances," said Miss Wallace. "I suppose that includes when you are in your pajamas."
